Removal of Existing Shower Door

If you contract with us to remove your existing shower enclosure, there are a few things we would like you to understand:

When we remove old work, we often find cracked tiles and additional holes. If we do find ourselves in this situation, we will notify you and make you aware of repair options.

Holes from your old shower door may or may not be concealed by the new door or its hinges. We will make every effort to hide old holes; however, if we cannot, we will fill each hole with caulk to match them as closely as possible to your tile. Unfortunately, we cannot guarantee color match.

Occasionally, tiles break when we remove old shower doors, regardless of the amount of care taken in removal. This is usually an indication that the tile adhesive has broken down due to water leakage. Again, we will advise you as to needed repairs, but we cannot be responsible for this type of damage, nor its repair.

Thank you in advance for choosing Construction Consultant Services! We look forward to installing your custom shower enclosure with the utmost pride, precision, and care.

Sincerely,
